Adult Sunday School will begin September 14th. Taught by Michael Mulconery. Come and train for being in the world but not of it as you develop the skills and knowledge necessary for cultivating a renewed mind skilled in Clear-Thinking Christianity.

Series beginning 09/14: "TACTICS: A Game Plan for Sharing Your Christian Convictions" As followers of Jesus Christ we are charged with the commission to go forth and make disciples of all nations, which in effect makes us Ambassadors of Christ to a lost and dying world. As ambassadors we persevere in the tension between the Christian worldview, the story of reality, and all other competing worldviews. Communicating truth into a mostly materialistic, relativistic, pluralistic and multi-cultural society is no easy task. Living in tension between two warring kingdoms (the one we represent-the Kingdom of God, and the one we live in daily-the kingdom of the evil one), takes strategic and tactical wisdom. While it is God who conquers hearts and minds, he ordinarily does so by strategically employing his people according to his providential plan. This suggests that the majority of believers are intended to "bloom" where they are planted. To do this, we need to know what we believe and why we believe it. Belief in Jesus Christ is at the heart of the story of reality. It is belief in the truth which sets people free from the bondage of sin and certain death which is inherent in false ideas and promises.

"TACTICS:A Game Plan for Sharing Your Christian Convictions" is not as much of a witnessing method as it is a tool for helping people think clearly about what they believe and the basis on which they believe it. As such, it is not an effort to clear away stumbling blocks, but rather to use stumbling blocks in particular ways; in this case, it is compared to "putting a stone in someone's shoe." With a stone in the shoe, people may find it less comfortable to continue in their former paths having encountered the inconsistencies of their convictions. In essence, Tactics give you a game plan for communicating the compelling truth about Christianity with both confidence and grace.
